MELLON WORKS FOR LASTING TAX PROGRAM

Too Many Changes in Rates Bad for Sound Development, He Believes

HOLDS STRONG POSITION

Clings to Idea That Present Situation in Business Can't Be Counted On

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1927, by Post Pub. Co., Washington. Not the same timid figure who first faced a ways and means committee six years ago nor the same shy personality, innocent of politics and politicians, came Monday morning to the office of the treasury to outline a program of tax revision. For Andrew W. Mellon has learned that good politics can be absorbed by the business man in office just as readily as by the campaigner on the stump.

Mr. Mellon has managed to win his major battles with congress. He doesn't always secure the rates he proposes but he has obtained reductions in the ultra-conservative never dreamed possible and he has prevented most of the unsound proposals offered in the maelstrom of congressional combat from getting adopted.

The venerable secretary, whose three score and ten years make him smile when a man like Charles Evans Hughes at 65 feels himself too old to bring the high brackets of the income tax down, is trying this time to bring about a tax revision that will last for several years to come. Too many changes in rates are not conducive to a sound development, he says, and he is not too high or too evasive based upon the theory that ultimate reductions will come and that corporation surpluses can be piled high in the meantime.

SOME RADICAL SUPPORT
Mr. Mellon succeeded in getting a 25 per cent surtax though it took two sessions of congress to do it. He succeeded, too, in having the government's surplus applied last year to the reduction of the income tax. He is now in the hands of the radicals, and he is trying to bring about a tax revision that will last for several years to come. Too many changes in rates are not conducive to a sound development, he says, and he is not too high or too evasive based upon the theory that ultimate reductions will come and that corporation surpluses can be piled high in the meantime.

STORM WARNINGS MAY BE SENT FROM GREENLAND
London.—(P)—From the summits of Greenland's icy mountains, weather prophets soon may be able to broadcast to the world warning of coming storms which work havoc in the Atlantic ocean lanes and the temperate zones generally. This is the hope of Dr. H. H. Hobbs, head of the University of Michigan scientific expedition, who started for home aboard the Leviathan Tuesday after ten weeks studying the northern storms at the place of their beginning over the great ice cap of interior Greenland.

Irish Tell Weird Tales About Great Ocean Storm

London.—(P)—Airplanes were engaged Tuesday in the sorrowful task of searching along the west coast of Ireland for the bodies of those fishermen who fell victim to the angry seas. Along the coast of Galway and Mayo, weird tales of that storm, which claimed from 60 to 70 lives, were told. One night last week, one of the tales said, a phantom ship followed a fishing boat from Inishbofin, Galway. The wraith vessel refused to answer their hail, but remained with the seamen throughout the night. This the crew interpreted as a warning of an impending disaster and declined to set foot again. Other similar stories were current among the superstitious folk.

HOLD FUNERAL OF BANKER AND WIFE

Chicago Financial World Mourns Death of John J. Mitchell
Chicago.—(P)—Chicago's head was bowed Tuesday at the bier of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell, killed in an automobile accident Saturday. The time of the double funeral was one half hour after banking hours Tuesday afternoon when every street car in Chicago was to come to a standstill for one minute. St. James Episcopal church, not far from the great banking houses of La Salle street was the place chosen for the services.

Operations of the Illinois Merchants trust were too extensive to permit its closing in honor of its head. Memorial services are to be held Tuesday night by the employees. The Herald and Examiner said Tuesday that although he controlled the destinies of companies whose aggregate worth was estimated at $1,640,000,000, Mr. Mitchell's own fortune was a comparatively small one, approximately $10,000,000.

Los Angeles.—(P)—Five year term marriages, with option of renewal, were advocated Tuesday by Judge Charles S. The policeman then fired three shots, two of them wounding the woman and the third striking the boy. Both wounds were slight.

BOYS DROP ELECTRIC LIGHTS IN STREET AND ARRESTS ARE SOUGHT

Power Company Offers Reward for Arrest of Boys Engaged in Dangerous Pranks

At least one Milwaukee prank with which Appleton youngsters amused themselves Monday evening may not be so amusing if the names of the perpetrators are secured. Boys climbed Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. poles in various parts of the city, unhooked the street lights and dropped the heavy wires and lights into the streets. A few of the lights were damaged but the seriousness of the situation is the fact that wires and lamps in the streets might have caused severe damage and even severe accidents to motorists, though none were reported.

While the lamps were dropped in all sections of the city, the Fourth ward, especially around the McKinley school, suffered most. Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. officials, incensed at the damage and accidents that might have resulted from the prank, are offering a $25 reward for information leading to a $25 reward for the youth. Though they probably are youngsters, the company intends to make an example of them to prevent further depredation of the kind.

Another prank which bothered residents of the Fourth ward considerably was the ringing of the McKinley school bell for a half hour during the late hours of the night. Some celebrants entered the building and fastened a rope to the bell in the tower; the rope leading almost a block from the schoolhouse. The bell was rung from that distance and even motor cycle policemen were unable to locate the end of the rope and the "pullers" though a thorough search was made.

In direct contrast to these pranks, was the consideration for neighborhood shown by a group of E. Lawrence-st boys, intent on having a happy Halloween but in a well-behaved manner. The boys were trying the usual porch tricks and then a block from the schoolhouse a woman who was sitting on the porch of a home in which there is a small baby.

"We'll skip this house," one of the boys said, "because there is a baby sleeping here. We'll take the next two" and then skip the one after that. "There's a baby there too."

BURGLARS TAKE $30 FROM TIRE STATION

Policeman Finds Window Removed from Collip Brothers Store

Burglars gained entrance to the Collip Brothers filling station and tire shop at 227 W. College-ave between 9 o'clock Monday night and 12:45 Tuesday morning and stole about $30 in cash. The theft was discovered by Officer Earl Thomas who found a back window of the shop open while traveling his beat.

Thomas notified Rube Gerschow who had been on duty at the station until 9 o'clock, and when Gerschow arrived he immediately looked for the cash which he had hidden beneath a show case but it had been stolen. The inside of the station had not been ransacked and nothing more than the $30 was missing.

The thief gained entrance by removing a pane of glass from a rear window, reached inside and pulled out a mail which held the window in place. The lower section of the window was removed entirely. Sergeant John Duval is investigating the matter.

BOOTH'S PURSUER DIES STILL DOUBTING SLAYING

Beloit—Wilson D. Kenzie, 83, Beloit civil war veteran, who saw Lincoln assassinated at Ford's theatre and was in the party of soldiers that pursued John Wilkes Booth, is dead at the home of a daughter in Baltimore, Md., where he was visiting, according to word reaching here today.

Kenzie was in the party that surrounded and killed the supposed assassin of Lincoln, but Kenzie, who previously had known Booth in New Orleans, claims the man killed was not Booth. He has always maintained that the real Booth escaped and that another man atoned for the crime.

Kenzie lived here nearly sixty years; he was a pioneer sash door manufacturer and lumber mill operator.

Better Mornings via Breakfasts That "Stand By" You

Quaker Oats Urged Widely by Authorities

FOREMOST educators, editors as well as leading business institutions like General Electric Company, are widely urging breakfasts that "stand by" as an important aid to success.

That's because it is now known that over 70% of the day's important work, in offices, stores, etc., falls into the four morning hours—the hours from 8:30 to 12:30.

In most American schools, including Princeton, Yale, most State Universities and some 2,000 grade schools throughout the country, 80% of the important classes are held before luncheon.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions now start days with Quaker Oats—food that "stands by" one through the morning.

Excellent balanced in protein, carbohydrates, minerals and the important Vitamin B, this delicious food is ideal for banishing listless mornings.

Today get Quick Quaker that cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes or regular Quaker Oats at grocers.

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

POUR CONCRETE FOR 2 SECTIONS OF DAM

Workmen Making Rapid Progress on Structure Across River Near Oneida-st Bridge

Workmen started pouring concrete Tuesday for the side walls of two sections of the new middle dam across the Fox river near the S. Oneida-st bridge. The bases and the anchor for the two sections were laid last week. When the first sections are completed the new concrete foundation under the damkeeper's residence will be laid.

A coffer dam was built around half the length of the dam and a steam shovel is digging down to the stone bottom of the river. After workmen remove the top surface, holes are dug into the stone and a space about three feet deep and from three to six feet wide is blasted out of the rock and filled with concrete to form an anchor for the structure.

The dam will extend across the river.

REGENT LAUDS WORK OF UNIVERSITY IN ENRICHING NATION

Declares, However, That Contributions Must Be Cultural and Material

Madison—(P)—The contributions of a state university to society are both cultural and material, says J. C. Schmidtman, Manitowoc, a member of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin, in an article appearing in the current Wisconsin Alumni Magazine.

"The greatest contribution an educational institution can make to the world is a stream of graduates reborn with free, unprejudiced minds," says Mr. Schmidtman. "Unfortunately, such cultural contributions, while they are the most valuable, are likewise the most difficult to measure and tabulate. The growing revolt against the Fordizing tendency of university organization, makes it evident that educational leaders themselves are not so sure that merely expanding an educational institution will produce that serenity of outlook and that scientific attitude towards the facts that should be the fruit of university training."

"It may be that the bold education experiment of Glenn Frank and Alexander Meiklejohn in organizing a small educational community with a great university will solve the modern educational riddle of combining intelligent understanding of life as a whole with that mastery of a specialized field which modern life exacts of each of us," Mr. Schmidtman says in his article.

INCREASED WEALTH
Though some may question the spiritual contributions of the state university to the age, none in his belief, will "doubt its enormous contributions to the material wealth of the times."

"The discoveries of chemists, geologists, plant pathologists, engineers and agronomists have added billions of dollars to the nation's wealth," he asserts.

Scientific leadership has transformed Wisconsin in a generation from a relatively poor state to the leadership of the world in diversified farming and dairying, says Mr. Schmidtman. He points out that Wisconsin "has outstripped every state in the Union except Michigan in average wealth," and that "in per capita wealth has outstripped even Michigan; the value of Wisconsin farms exceeds that of the whole of New England, plus those of Delaware, New Jersey, Florida and Louisiana."

Among the contributions of the University of Wisconsin to the economic advancement of the state, Mr. Schmidtman mentions the Babcock butter fat test, invented by Prof. Babcock in 1890, which "transformed dairying from a 'side-line' to an exact scientific industry."

The breeding of pedigreed seed, begun by a small group of University agronomists headed by Dr. Ransom A. Moore, has helped "transform the crops of the land of the Pharaohs into the Nile," and millions of dollars annually have been added to the wealth of Wisconsin by this piece of research.

SMALL PERSONAL STATUS
The principle of the caterpillar tractor is the result of a thesis written by two University of Wisconsin seniors, named Hart and Parr, says Mr. Schmidtman and the automobile was made a possibility by experiments in the college of engineering of the University of Michigan.

"As the structure of modern society grows in size and complexity, the individual occupies a smaller and smaller niche in the structure," concludes Mr. Schmidtman. "The very development going on in testing laboratories and experiment stations to create new processes to serve mankind is lessening the importance of the individual. If the machinery of modern society is to be kept the servant, rather than the master of men, it will be along lines of contributions made by the scientific laboratories of the University of Wisconsin."

RECEIVE COMPLAINTS ON MAILING OF PENS

Numerous complaints are being received at postoffices in some cities that persons sending fountain pens to manufacturers for repair are violating the postal code by sending the package fourth class mail and enclosing a slip designating or describing the trouble with the pen. Any communication in a parcel automatically makes it first class mail matter and subject to first class rates.

When such cases are found the addressee must pay the extra postage and causes the postal department considerable trouble. The result has been that the Washington office of the department has asked postmasters to inform patrons of the ruling relating to communications in packages containing fountain pens.

WORLD SAFETY RECORD SET BY KIMBERLY-CLARK

A new world safety record of 215 days work without time lost because of accidents was established last week by the Kimberly-Clark company mill at Niagara. The contest began Feb. 16, among the corporations mills at Niagara Falls, N. Y. Kimberly and the Niagara. Two weeks ago the Niagara mill passed the 200 day run of the Niagara Falls mill, but not until last Wednesday did they surpass the record formerly held by the Kimberly mill. The previous record for safety in the Niagara mill was 172 days.

In recognition of the efforts of the men to lessen accidents, the Kimberly-Clark company will present two free lyceum numbers at Niagara, Nov. 7 and 28.

ADVOCATES BURNING OF LIBRARY BOOKS

State Supervisor Says Many Volumes Are Too Worn Out for Use

Milwaukee—(P)—The furnace and the bindery should play a larger part in libraries of Wisconsin, M. H. Jackson, supervisor of school libraries of the state department of public instruction, told county superintendents of schools in session Tuesday.

"We spend time and a great deal of conscious effort in keeping our bodies neat in appearance and sanitary in condition that they may be fit dwelling places for the soul," he said. "The physical expressions of a library—books, magazines, tables, shelves and chairs should be kept as neat and clean in appearance as possible that they may express the beauty of the invisible—the spiritual life for which the library stands. Every book in the bookcase should be neat in appearance and free from dust. Children are not attracted to a slovenly bookcase where worn out volumes and filthy shelves are apparent even at a distance. It takes time and conscious effort to keep a library in good condition, but teachers and pupils working together with a desire to make both books and shelves attractive can work wonders in the appearance of their school library."

"The furnace and the bindery should do more to make our shelves respectable in appearance. We should ask our teachers to sort their books and place them in three collections. One of these will be for the furnace. One for the bindery and the remainder for shelves. A worn out book that can be replaced for even a little more money than the rebinding will cost should be cremated. Some badly worn books can be cut up, mounted and filed in parts for future reference or for sight reading but it is the testimony of many superintendents that books so disposed of are seldom used again."

"Reading has been called the heart of the curriculum." This being true how important it is that we should safeguard its influence and good by making the library what we know it should be, a model of neatness and beauty as well as a place where children may go for information and also a place where children may go for books to read just for the pleasure of reading."

A fasting club, the members of which believe that a 40-day's fast will cure any chronic ailment, has been found in Belgrade.

ASTHMA CAUSE DISCOVERED

Free Booklet Mailed on Request

Indianapolis—Those who suffer from asthma and hay fever will be gratified to learn that at last science has succeeded in discovering the basic cause of these two stubborn maladies.

This discovery disproves the old theory that asthma is due solely to climatic conditions and hay fever entirely to pollen. The discovery of the real cause of these diseases has proved that these are merely aggravating factors and that the basic cause lies in the individual himself.

Fortunately for all who suffer from these diseases a way has also been found to overcome this basic cause in the individual instead of merely treating the surface symptoms, as has been done in the past.

For full information write for important booklet on the discovery of the cause of asthma and hay fever. It will be sent free to readers of this paper who will write to Department 1310 Fugate Company, 124 S. Meridian Street, Indianapolis—Adv.

Publicity Men Haunt Hollywood Studios As Time Nears For Picking Wampus Stars

Hollywood—Now that winter is almost upon us again, Hollywood is beginning to think about the 1928 Wampus Baby Stars. An organization of Hollywood publicity men, selects 13 girls as the best starring prospects for the coming 12 months. The nomination of next year's baby star candidates is still more than a month away, but Wampus members are doing a lot of thinking along such lines just the same—because there aren't 13 girls among the using cinema set who rate such a distinction.

Of course, when it comes to a vote 13 girls will be selected—but some of them will just be "fillers."

The best prospect. Leading the list of prospects is Ruth Taylor, former blonde comedy queen. Ruth was picked from scores of tow-heads for the highly coveted role of Lorelei in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." From early reports, this film will more than live up to expectations. If it does, Ruth's future is assured.

Sue Carol is another good bet. The beautiful young brunette left Chicago's "four hundred" to embark upon a film career. With a face like hers she couldn't help "clicking" immediately. She made one picture for Fox and was then signed by Douglas MacLean as his leading lady. Now she is playing a featured lead at Universal and will then return to MacLean again. Sue already has made her mark.

Lupe Velez also is a future resident of the cinema heavens. She came to the movie town from Mexico City, played in several Hal Roach comedies and was then signed by Douglas Fairbanks to play with him in "The Gaucho." Doug thinks the girl is a great actress.

Alice White, the girl whose hair has been various shades of red ever since she started acting, looks like a real comer. She has just finished important roles in "The Private Life of Helen of Troy" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Prior to those productions she played several other important roles.

Blonde beauty. Thelma Todd is also a blonde beauty whose work during the past five or six months has been drawing comments from her directors. With the proper campaigning she'll be chosen sure. And still another favored girl is Gwen Lee, who has been stepping along pretty fast on the Metro Goldwyn-Mayer lot.

Viola Richard, Nancy Nash and Dorothy Gulliver haven't done anything really exciting but they have shown ability and are likely to claim pretty fast next year. They're all worth taking a chance on, in the hopes that they will crash through.

Besides these girls, somebody will have to do some pretty fast work to dig up others who show any signs of going to the top. There is an oversupply of pretty girls in Hollywood, but there is a dearth of good actresses.

Neenah—Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Sackner spent Sunday with their son, Wesley Sackner, who is a student at the state university at Madison.

George McGahn, formerly of the town of Neenah, is currently all at Vancouver, Canada, according to word received here by relatives.

Mr. William Laemmrich and daughter Cella and sons Paul and Joseph have returned home after a visit with Milwaukee relatives.

P. D. Lake has gone to Winneconne, Wis., where he will spend the winter with his daughter, Mrs. W. D. Ramsey.

Menasha—While the usual Halloween pranks were played throughout the city Monday night there was less destruction of property than on previous years. A few fences and steps were disturbed and an Indian cigar sign in some unknown man's found his way to the Menasha high school grounds. Windows were soaped and cornets was thrown during the evening. Ghosts also were on parade.

Menasha—Miss Dorothy Bookley, a nurse in Green Bay, and Edward F. Friabohle of Minnesota arrived in Menasha at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning and inquired at the first department headquarters where they could find a justice of the peace. Arthur Gutzman called up Justice F. J. Bodney to see if he was home and upon finding he was directed to the depot to take a train for a wedding trip to Stevens Point and Waupun. They intended to make their home at Green Bay. They came to Menasha to be married to steal a march on their friends.

Winnebago-co board will meet on Nov. 15. Menasha—The annual meeting of Winnebago-co board will open at Oshkosh Tuesday, Nov. 15, and will continue in session for two weeks. The financing of the proposed new Wisconsin bridge of Menasha will come up for consideration at that time.

Menasha Police make 14 arrests in month. Menasha—Fourteen arrests were made during October, and due to the monthly report of Chief of Police James Lyman. The major part were for disorderly conduct and reckless driving.

THE BEST OF THE GROUP

These four girls are considered leading candidates for the honor of being chosen Wampus Baby Stars. They are, left to right, top—Ruth Alice White and Lupe Velez; below, Sue Carol and Ruth Taylor.

S. S. VAN DINE, The Narrator

THIS HAS HAPPENED
A woman's gloves and handbag are found at the scene of Benson's murder and a large gray automobile is reported to have been standing outside at midnight. Markham tells Vance he is going to arrest Miss St. Clair, the owner of the handbag. Vance insists that the indicatory evidence is worthless and that she is innocent.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER XII
Markham turned on him with considerable warmth.

"Does it mean nothing in the way of evidence, even to your layman's mind, that a woman's intimate and necessary articles, which she has carried throughout the evening, are found in her escort's quarters the following morning?"

"In admitting that it does not," Vance acknowledged quietly, "I do not doubt expose a legal perception lamentably inefficient."

"But since the lady certainly wouldn't have carried these particular objects during the afternoon, and since she couldn't have called at the house that evening during Benson's absence without the housekeeper knowing it, how, may one ask, did these articles happen to be there the next morning if she herself did not take them there late that night?"

"Pon my word, I haven't the slightest notion," Vance rejoined. "The lady herself could doubtless appease your curiosity. But there are any number of possible explanations. I know. Our departed Chesterfield might have brought them home in his coat pocket—women are eternally handing men all manner of gewgaws and bundles to carry for 'em, with the cooing request: 'Can you put this in your pocket for me?' . . . Then, again, there is the possibility that the real murderer secured them in some way, and placed them on the mantel deliberately to mislead the police."

"Women, don't you know, never put out their belongings in such neat, out-of-the-way places as mantels and hat-racks. They invariably throw them down on your favorite chair or your center-table."

"And I suppose," Markham interjected, "Benson also brought the lady's cigaret butts home in his pocket?"

"Stranger things have happened," returned Vance equably. "Though I shan't accuse him of it in this instance. . . . The cigaret butts may, I know, be evidence of a previous conversation."

"Even your despised Heath," Markham informed him, "had sufficient intelligence to ascertain from the housekeeper that she sweeps out the grate every morning."

Vance sighed admiringly. "You're so thorough, aren't you? But, I say, that can't be by any chance your only evidence against the lady?"

"By no means," Markham assured him. "But, despite your superior distrust, it's good corroboratory evidence nevertheless."

"I dare say," Vance agreed. "—seeing with what frequency innocent persons are condemned in our courts. . . . But tell me more."

Markham proceeded with an air of quiet self-assurance.

"My man learned, first, that Benson dined alone with this woman at the Marseilles, a little Bohemian restaurant in West Fortieth Street; secondly, that they quarreled; and thirdly, that they departed at midnight, entering a taxicab together. . . . Now, the murder was committed at 12:30, but since the lady lives on Riverside Drive, in the Eighties, Benson couldn't possibly have accompanied her home—which obviously he would have done had he not taken her to his own house—and returned by the time the shot was fired.

"But we have further proof pointing to her being at Benson's. My man learned, at the woman's apartment-house, that actually she did not get home until shortly after 1. Moreover, she was without her gloves and handbag and had to let in her rooms with a pass-key, because, as she explained, she had lost hers."

"As you remember, we found the key in her bag. And—to clinch the whole matter—the smoked cigarets in the grate correspond to the one you found in her case."

Markham paused to relight his cigar.

"So much for that particular evening," he resumed. "As soon as I learned the woman's identity this morning, I put two more men to work on her private life."

"Just as I was leaving the office this noon the men phoned in their reports. They had learned that the woman has a fiancé, a chap named Leacock, who was a captain in the army, and who would be likely to own just such a gun as Benson was killed with. Furthermore, this Captain Leacock lunched with the woman the day of the murder and also called on her at her apartment the morning after."

Markham leaned slightly forward, and his next words were emphasized by the tapping of his fingers on the arm of the chair.

"But I'm sure you've already arranged to bullyrag the lady and perhaps trick her into one or two of those contradictions so dear to every lawyer's heart—just as if any nervous or high-strung person could help indulging in apparent contradictions while being cross-questioned as a suspect in a crime they had nothing to do with."

"To 'put 'em on the grill'—a most accurate designation. So reminiscent of burning people at the stake, what?"

"Well, I'm most certainly going to question her," replied Markham firmly, glancing at his watch. "And one of my men is escorting her to the office in half an hour; so I must break up this most delightful and edifying chat."

"You really expect to learn something incriminating by interrogating her?" asked Vance. "I know, I'd jolly well like to witness your humiliation. But I presume your heckling of suspects is a part of the legal argu-ment."

Markham had risen and turned toward the door, but at Vance's words he paused and appeared to deliberate.

"I can't see any particular objection to your being present," he said.

THE GREATER ORDEAL

Charles A. Lindbergh, alone, leaped up into the trackless sky, over the trackless deep, and hour after hour of light and dark, of sun and moon and stars, of calm and storm, of fog and rain and hail, winged his arrow-flight from New York to Paris. It was a magnificent adventure, a thrilling victory. The glory of the achievement was so bright that the sight was dazzled and made unconscious of any underlying shadow.

But there must have been a shadow. In the heart of this lone eagle leaping out into the endless waste of sea and sky seeking a place of safety for his alighting, there must have been the pang of parting that comes to those who know that the chances are a thousand to one they may never return. There was the loneliness of those endless hours of hum and drone, sea and sky, sky and sea, and drone and hum. There was the painfulness of being in a cramped position in so confined a space. There was the constant vigil to ward off the numbing clutch of sleep that in one instant might cast him into the hungry maw of the surging sea. There was the constant uncertainty of the endurance of strut and stay and wing, of engine, controls and gas supply. What an ordeal that must have been! And he came through safely.

But from the hour of his alighting he had endured an ordeal such as he had never dreamed he would be called upon to face. And he has come through safely. The conqueror of the Atlantic has in the last three months flown an additional 22,350 miles through the fickle winds of popular acclaim, over an immeasurable sea of sickly sentimentality. He has faced the oratorical storms of sixty-nine formal dinners, met without flinching the overpowering admiration of eighty-two welcoming cities, kept his courage and coolness while delivery of 147 set speeches, maintained a sense of humor through 1,285 dreadful miles of welcoming parades and allowed himself to be visually admired by an estimated total of 30,000,000 of his countrymen, and yet remains the same modest youth he was at the beginning.

This is the greater ordeal, and the greater victory.

CURB BANK FAILURES

The American Bankers' association realizes the necessity of a nation-wide defense against bank failures, the number of which have been mounting in recent years. Throughout the United States, during the past seven years there have been more than 4,000 bank failures, which have tied up a total of over $1,000,000,000 in deposits. From fifty to seventy-five per cent of which represents a loss to depositors. In addition to this staggering loss other billions have gone into hiding through the withdrawal of deposits by timid people who lost confidence in banking institutions. The business of the country is now being conducted by 4,000 less banks, and without doubt could be conducted by still 4,000 less.

To insure greater stability it is apparent that there should be more bankers in the banking business, that there should be fewer and stronger banks, that better banking methods should be generally adopted, that greater care should be exercised in investigating the qualifications and fitness of those applying for bank charters, and that there should be the establishment of non-political banking boards in every state. The minimum capital requirements of banks should be increased.

Who owns and operates our banks? The butcher, the baker, the candle-stick maker who has amassed a sufficient sum which, with the savings of a group of associates, meets the requirements of the government. Are they bankers? Very often not. Yet they are permitted to set up in the banking business with ignorance or disregard of the best banking methods in a locality perhaps already over-supplied with banks, where it will be a struggle to survive and where their limited capital makes it disastrous to the depositors if they fail. The matter has long needed correction. A determined effort by the bankers' association could effect it.

INDUSTRIAL PROSPERITY MYTH?

John E. Edgerton, president of the National association of Manufacturers, addressing the association's thirty-second annual convention, expressed the opinion that America's widely advertised prosperity is largely a myth so far as the general run of manufacturers is concerned. In his effort to "debunk" the prevailing impression concerning the prosperity of all industry, Mr. Edgerton asserted that less than half of the manufacturers who are operating at all are earning regular net profits, and never in history was the margin of profit as small as it is today. Never has the manufacturer had to labor so hard to keep going, and there are few who see further than two months ahead. Outside the few gigantic corporations which do not have to bother about competition, and by whose large profits the public is misled, Mr. Edgerton thinks the common run of manufacturers in America today are in about as unhappy a condition as their fellow producers, the farmers.

The position of the wage earners, on the other hand, Mr. Edgerton pictures as the happiest they ever have known, with high wages and a lower cost of living. All of which may be true, but it is not also true that in drawing a picture the thing nearest the observer may loom so large as to obscure, if not to entirely blot out, other objects which if viewed from another angle might be of equal importance. If the workers' wages were less, if they were less prosperous, they would not be in a position to buy the goods manufactured or the produce grown by the farmer.

SCHOOL DELINQUENTS DECREASE

The attendance in public schools is said to be unprecedented. While two years ago there were 3,000,000 children between the ages of five and seventeen years who were not attending school, today the number has been reduced to around 2,500,000. Public schools are attended by 25,000,000, and 2,500,000 attend private schools. An average of one hundred dollars for the education of each of these 27,500,000 children in the public schools is being expended by the nation, representing the huge sum of $2,000,000,000 or more.

As many as 4,000,000 of these school children attend high schools, and junior high schools, relatively unknown twenty years ago, now number twelve hundred, with also a large attendance, showing how much larger a percentage of pupils now continue their education to the higher grades.

While the expenditure is very large, there is no manner in which it could be invested where the possibility of return is so great. The decrease of 500,000 in delinquent pupils is therefore a great potential gain.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

The special meaning of the crisis of this disease for the covering membrane (meninges) and the substance of the spinal cord, medulla and sometimes the brain; the serious paralysis that so often remains; and the uncertainty about the nature and cause of the disease all combine to make it a dreadful one, and especially for families with young children. I hope it is not unkind to give such parents the best knowledge possible about the manifestations of this disease and the best advice we can give regarding prevention.

With the onset there is a fever and as a rule some digestive disturbance such as loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting or diarrhea. The patient has much the same general malaise or wretchedness as occurs in tonsillitis or simple sore throat or various other forms of cold—headache, restlessness, irritability or drowsiness. After a day or two the patient shows disinclination to move or be moved, as any movement seems to give discomfort. Then there is a stiffness felt about the neck or the upper part of the back or spine, and perhaps actual pain when the neck or spine is bent. If the illness is infantile paralysis the group muscles affected will become flaccid on the third or fourth day, and generally the patient complains of some pain in the affected muscles before the paralysis is noticeable.

Doctors who have had the opportunity to study the disease believe that in a considerable number of cases no paralysis occurs, but the feverish illness nevertheless confers immunity upon the lucky child. Dr. W. H. Frost, an authority, suggests that infantile paralysis or rather acute poliomyelitis, is probably as prevalent as measles, but only in a few cases produces definite paralysis so that we recognize the nature of the illness. It may be that many cases of "simple sore throat" or "croup" or "stomach upset" are in reality this nature.

Having no specific remedy, either for immunizing children or treating the illness, we can only recommend that now is the time to keep the children at home and avoid all unnecessary traveling about or visiting or personal contacts outside the usual environment. And now is the time for the health and school authorities to stiffen up their policy in dealing with alleged "colds" and excuse or exclude from school every child who has any such condition. Likewise parents should be especially vigilant just at present to note signs of such minor illness and promptly isolate the affected individual or keep other individuals outside of the range.

JOHN DILLE.

National Newspaper Service.
Physicians may be able to make a diagnosis of poliomyelitis before or without the paralysis, by lumbar puncture and examination of the cerebrospinal fluid.

The best treatment for the acute illness before paralysis is the same as the treatment of cold generally—rest in bed, and if or after paralysis develops, rest is still the best remedy. Massage or manipulation of any sort is not advised at this stage. Intelligent massage will be useful six or eight weeks after the acute illness, in dealing with the residual paralysis. Even now, ignorant manipulation of the spine or unsentimental efforts at massage may make an otherwise favorable outcome impossible. The victim of infantile paralysis surely deserves the benefit of qualified medical or surgical advice and care to insure not only the things that should be done but also to save the patient from the ultimate development of deformities.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tuberculosis of Spine Not Infectious
Please tell me whether tuberculosis of the spine is catching. The patient wears a brace, and fondles and kisses a baby not yet six months old, also other children two and four years old. (M. G.)

Answer—It is not catching. But no one has a right to kiss a baby, because all sorts of troubles may be conveyed in kissing—common "cold," sore throat, even pneumonia, regardless of the apparent health of the kisser.

Vegetables for Babies
Do you advise feeding a eight-month old baby cooked vegetables? Isn't that a rather radical departure from older methods of infant feeding? I supposed a baby's first diet had to be liquid for the first two years. (Mrs. L. A. R.)

Answer—The old-fashioned baby was kept on liquid too long. Regular babies should have well cooked vegetables strained through sieve, daily from the seventh month—a teaspoonful at first, increased later. Also fresh meat broths, clear at first, and later thickened with flour. Yes, the babies were kept on a limited liquid diet too long, and the babies had malnutrition, rickets, scurvy, constipation, colic and everything else.

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

ON—

VARE AND SMITH TO BE SEATED
Washington, D. C. — One thing reasonably certain with respect to the approaching session of Congress is that the Senate will seat William S. Vare and Frank L. Smith, Senators-elect, respectively, from Pennsylvania and Illinois. Whether they will be permitted to retain their seats is another question, but predictions are now being made freely in Washington that once they have been sworn in as Senators the two men will never be ousted.

Democratic as well as Republican Senate leaders are said to have come to the conclusion that their branch of Congress has no constitutional right to exclude a man who presents the credentials of a duly elected Senator from a sovereign State. There is no question as to the Senate's right to expel a member, but it is pointed out that a legislative body can not expel a man who has never been a member. Hence the tentative decision to seat both Vare and Smith and then take such action as may become necessary with respect to their tenure of office.

That action may be different in the two cases, because of a difference that has developed in the status of the two men, although originally their eligibility to the Senate was attacked on the same grounds — the use of too much money in their primary campaigns.

In the case of Smith there is no contention that he is not a duly elected Senator from Illinois. He was elected by an overwhelming vote and the legality of his election has never been in doubt. His opponent at the polls is not contesting the election. The procedure in his case, presumably, will be that a Senator who does not believe Smith should be permitted to hold a seat in the Senate will offer a resolution providing for his expulsion.

That would mean a trial that might be brought to the floor of the Senate, for that body has permitted counsel to appear at its bar, although it declined to grant a request for a specific statement of charges or compulsory process for witnesses. Expulsion requires a two-thirds vote.

A CONTEST IN VARE'S CASE

Vare's case differs in that his election is being contested by his Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson, former Secretary of Labor in the Wilson Cabinet. That contest must be determined by the Senate in accordance with precedents, which will form an investigation by the committee on privileges and elections, with a report that will be acted upon by the Senate itself.

The Senate, if it finds that Vare was not legally elected, can unseat him and seat Wilson, and it can do this by a majority vote. Such a majority vote might be mustered if all the Democratic Senators and a few of the Progressives or Insurgents stood together, but it is regarded as extremely doubtful that anything of the sort will eventuate. Vare is shown by official election returns to have received sufficient votes to elect him, with many thousands of votes to spare, and for the Senate to unseat him and seat Wilson would be to establish a precedent that leading Democrats do not like to contemplate, it is said.

Having seated Vare and decided the election contest in his favor, the Senate may even then expel Vare in proceedings similar to those outlined as possible in Smith's case.

The tacit agreement among what is said to be a controlling number of Senators that the Senate can not refuse to seat Vare and Smith without doing violence to the Constitution and committing a serious invasion of state rights is entirely apart from the opinions of those Senators as to whether or not too much money was expended in behalf of Vare and Smith in their primary campaigns. As Senator King, of Utah, one of the Democratic members of the committee that investigated the so-called "slush fund" primaries, has said in a formal statement on the subject:

"Important constitutional questions are involved in the assertion of the power of the Senate to exclude a member-elect who has been duly certified as such by a State. These questions vitally affect our dual system of government. To deny the right of a State to select its representatives in the Senate would be a fatal impairment of the rights of a sovereign State, and would therefore affect our real form of government. Senators are all sworn to maintain the Constitution."

WHAT THE CONSTITUTION SAYS

The Constitution says that "the Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, and that no person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen."

When a State by the votes of its electors has chosen a Senator of the qualifications prescribed, that State, it is contended, is entitled to the participation of that Senator in the deliberations of the Senate from the day he presents his credentials, and is ready to take the oath of office until such time as the Senate has decided that his election was not legal or that he has been guilty of conduct or offenses warranting his expulsion.

The Constitution also says that each house of Congress "shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members," and "may punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the con-concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member."

Members of the House of Representatives and of the Senate have been expelled for treason, for high misdemeanor inconsistent with public duty, for friendship or association with enemies of the Government, and for bearing arms against the Government.

Advocates of the constitutional right of Vare and Smith to be seated argue that since they present the prescribed certificates of elections from their respective States the Senators from other States have no more right to exclude them because they do not approve of what happened in the nominating primaries in Pennsylvania and Illinois than they have to exclude them because they do not approve of the personal characteristics, habits, or political beliefs of the Senators-elect.

If it can be shown that Vare and Smith, either or both, were guilty of fraud or corruption in winning their way to the Senate, or that fraud or corruption was indulged in by others in order to get Vare and Smith into the Senate, then, presumably, they will have no defenders in the Senate and will forfeit their seats.

Admittedly enormous sums of money were spent in the primaries in both Pennsylvania and Illinois, but Senators who have studied the evidence gathered by the investigating committee are slow to charge that either Vare or Smith was guilty of fraud or corruption or violated any law. If votes were purchased in either State, it is said, it was done by indirectness through employing campaign workers or watchers at the polls, and it is virtually impossible to prove that such employment was for corrupt purposes.

A NEW YORKER IN PARIS

By Gilbert Swan.

Paris—Scattered notes from an afternoon's ramble about Paris:

The Mosque de Paris. . . . I came upon it after a visit to the Call-fornia redwood block left by the legion in the Jardin des Plantes. . . . The Jardin is one of the myriad parks that Paris maintains, and one in which you will find the most children. . . . Paris does not need to hoard space, like New York. . . . There is an individual garden for every child in Paris if he wishes to find it.

At any rate, it was nearing sundown when I came to a great wall of Oriental mosaic and stucco. And I was stopped by the sound of voices chanting one of those nasal hymns of the desert, the muezzin. Turks and Arabs were going about in various robes. . . . But, now and then, when the wind whips aside one of the flowing capes, you notice a garb that looks suspiciously American.

A young priest took me about through the endless corridors and gardens and chapels, some made of the most fragrant cedar; some of the most intricately patterned mosaic. . . . The Mosque is still in process of building. . . . It is being made piece by piece, block by block, with infinite skill and patience.

If you would find the American flapper out 'doing Paris,' you must go to the oriental tea-room that attaches the Mosque. . . . This, I am told, is the latest "smart thing" to do. . . . The flapper dangles her slender, silk stockings legs over the exotic divans and floor pillows. . . . She arrives in a taxi and orders her "tea with mint" and Turkish paste.

On a raised platform, covered with lavish oriental trimmings, the Turkish musicians play their intoxicating music and a young fellow, heating a hollow vase, sings a whining, endless tune.

Some of the flappers loiter in the haremlike poses on their pillows.

Some openly start a little "necking party" with the boy friend.

Some times the boy friend is dark skinned and oriental eyed and obviously fascinating. . . .

Between songs American slang echoes about the mosaic room. A young art student takes a try at a water pipe and pretends to be quite at home with it.

A delicate faced waiter in the purple and red robes of the Arab wanders through. . . . Natives in American clothes drift in and out. . . . A lazy languor steals over the place and the flappers stretch, revealing a bit more leg than is necessary.

The orientals are perhaps used to this. . . . Some perhaps think themselves in the presence of young wantons, since their own women have definite codes of dress. The flappers, turned loose in Paris, don't seem to care one way or the other.

They try to puff their cigars after the accepted fashion of certain movie vamps. . . . Others, prim, precise and merely curious, look about with a certain disgust. . . .

It reminds me, just a bit, of a couple of Broadway "atmosphere" racketeers. . . . And I would dismiss it as such were it not that over the wall drift voices in a chant as old as time and, as the old men chant, they face the East.

STATE DEPARTMENT AND FARM SCHOOL IN ECONOMIC STUDY

COLLEGE OFFERING NEW LAND STUDIES COURSE BY EXPERT

Careful Survey of Land Conditions in Bayfield-co Is Being Made

Madison—(AP)—The state department has made a good start in agricultural economics investigation, at the same time that the college of agriculture has begun work along the same lines. The college will use the $10,000 appropriation, given to it by the legislature for the improvement of agricultural marketing, in the expansion of the economic study of the college, its dean, H. L. Russell said Monday. The state department's first objective is an economic survey of land in Bayfield-co. Prof. George S. Wehrwein, newly appointed head of the college's new work, is working with Walter A. Duffy, commissioner of agriculture, on the project.

The Bayfield-co survey as a review of cultivated land, a summary of the amount of uncultivated land, prairie, land, hill country, lakes, forest land, and recreational grounds. Statistics will be compiled to show whether the land is giving a profitable return with recommendations as to how it might best be used. Mr. Duffy said that other surveys similar to the one made in Bayfield-co will be conducted.

NEW COURSE AT U. W.

The general expansion at the college of agriculture is to include the introduction of a new course in land studies, given by Prof. Wehrwein, who is a graduate of the state school, and who has been connected for the last few years with Dr. Richard T. Ely, at Northwestern university. Farmers' institutes, of which there were 13 last year, will be expanded to 25 this fall, and farm management will be added to the list of subjects. Subjects of the farmers' institutes will be American cheese, butter, livestock marketing and tobacco. Under the direction of Prof. Theodore Macklin, are two groups of men, headed by E. L. Luther, director of institutes, and Herman W. Ullsperger, Sturgeon Bay, general manager of the Door County Fruit Growers' Union.

Five men, including part-time assistants, are to be added to the instruction staff.

GREEN BAY FARMER HAS FUR AND POULTRY RANCH

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Green Bay—As G. B. Hill, route 7, does not like cows and dairying very well and prefers fur-bearing animals, he started a fur and poultry ranch on his farm last spring. To start in the chicken business he bought 1,000 White Leghorn baby chicks in May and raised 700 of them. He sold the roosters and a few of the pullets but kept 300 pullets for layers. He expects the pullets to commence laying as soon as they are six months of age.

To start his fur ranch, Mr. Hill bought a trio of purebred Chinchilla rabbits of C. A. Gebke an Appleton breeder, last spring. He sold six rabbits since starting, pelleted 12 and now has 30 of all ages in his ranch. Before he starts marketing rabbits on a large scale, Mr. Hill wants to have at least 50 breeding does on hand.

Mr. Hill also bought a pair of purebred minks of Peter Fleming, Hibbert, but will not have any increase in his mink family before next spring.

PLEASANT VIEW CHEESE FACTORY JOINS CO-OP

Little Chute—At a recent meeting of the patrons of Pleasant View Cheese factory, owned and operated by Jake Bierstaker, route 1, they decided to affiliate at once with the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' federation, to begin making cheese Nov. 1, to use the Neenah warehouse of the federation for storage purposes and to do their marketing through the federation. Mr. Bierstaker started making cheese in his present location 16 years ago with 12 farmers delivering milk to him. The factory under his management has had a substantial growth and has 60 patrons at the present time.

About 5000 cooperative livestock shipping associations and other local organizations shipping livestock are said to be doing business in the United States.

Best Hen Is Producer Of Most Food For Humans

Madison—(AP)—A good hen is one that produces the maximum of food for human consumption, says J. G. Halpin, head of the poultry department of the College of Agriculture. "It is our job to get hens, and all other farm animals to transform products which human beings do not want into food that they will eat, or into things they will wear."

When we speak, then, of improving the quality of hens, we mean to increase the egg-producing capacity of them, according to Mr. Halpin. It is necessary, he says, to guard against increasing a hen's egg-productivity at the expense of lowering her vitality so that the off-spring hatched from her eggs will be of mediocre stock.

"A high-producing hen must be properly nourished," he says, "or her off-spring will be robbed of their vitality. For that reason, it is not sufficient simply to take high-producers and put them together, for they do not always breed well. In trap-netting we find the poultry which produces best, and by pedigree hatchings, we pick out those which have ability to produce good offspring."

"The ability to produce a great number of eggs does not imply that a hen will be a producer of good off-spring. The offspring of a hen which

Early Waupaca-Co Apple Trees Of Crab Variety

Royalton—The first settlers in Waupaca-co were of the mistaken conviction that apple trees would not live and bear fruit in this cold northern climate, but that crabapple trees would stand the cold better; therefore the first orchards in the township of Royalton and elsewhere in the county consisted of crabapple trees, some of these orchards having as many as 60 or 70 trees, a large number for the small farms then cleared.

The Transcendent, a summer variety of crab, was the kind planted. These crabs, while good in their season, were not good keepers and too perishable to ship. The first apple

Bernard Schouten, route 2, Kaukauna, has all his crops under cover and has finished his fall plowing. With the exception of corn and potatoes, his crops were quite good this season. Mrs. Schouten has 200 Brown Leghorns, housed in a new modern coop built with baffle board and star ventilation. With perfect ventilation supplied in this way and the use of balanced rations, the flock of Mrs. Schouten lays throughout the year as a rule. She raised 200 chickens last summer.

Andrew Otte, route 5, Kaukauna, is erecting a hip roof building on a concrete foundation, 24 by 52 feet, to be used as a double garage, hog house and chicken coop. The concrete floors of the pens in the hog house are bordered by slanting drains three feet wide and two from two to four inches deep. Concrete troughs extend along one side of pens and the feed alley. The feed alley is of sufficient width and length to contain barrels, bins and chutes. Opposite the pens is a granary 9 by 24 feet. The hog house is well drained and ventilated. The chicken coop, 20 by 204 feet, is constructed to provide warmth, light and ventilation. Henry Wittman and William Dangart are doing the construction work under the supervision of Anton Wellhouse.

Arthur Graf, route 1, Little Chute, is now completing the building of a machine shed on a concrete foundation, 24 by 60 feet, with 8 foot posts. Earlier in the season, he built a hog house and chicken coop under the same roof, 18 by 30 feet. The completion of the new chicken coop was an incentive for Mrs. Graf to start in the poultry business with purebred, single comb, Rhode Island Reds. Of this variety, Mrs. Graf raised 145 pullets and gradually got rid of her old birds. Mr. Graf's crops are all under cover.

James Hansen, route 7, Green Bay, has been in the poultry-raising business the past four years and is selling eggs during the breeding season to a Green Bay hatchery. He has now 200 fine looking Barred Rocks on hand and may reduce that number to 175 choice layers. In the spring, Mr. Hansen bought 1,000 chicks from a hatchery and raised 700 birds. He has a very good laying strain and by feeding his layers just right he induces them to lay throughout the year with short time exceptions. When the breeding season is not on, Mr. Hansen markets his eggs twice a week and can not supply the demand. He expects a state inspector to visit his coops soon to cull his birds on the basis of size, color, legs and all other points of Barred Rocks. A card issued by the inspector after he finishes the culling will be evidence that Mr. Hansen's flock is state accredited.

The Fern-Dell farms of Green Bay, are consigning a bull and a cow to the Wisconsin State Guernsey Breeders' sale at Waukesha, Nov. 8, as a part of 36 head consigned from several sections of the state. According to A. W. Fox, manager, two dairymen from Michigan are in this territory buying dairy cattle for their own use. Five other men within the next ten days are to arrive here, to buy five carloads of Guernsey dairy cattle. As these men are personally acquainted with Mr. Fox, they have invited him to assist them in their buying program.

Mrs. George I. Sasman, Black Creek, is not very well pleased with the yield tree raised in this township was from apple seeds planted by John Hayward in 1851.

The first orchard of bearing apples was planted and raised by William Masters on his farm south of White Lake. He was generous in giving his fruit to other pioneer settlers. Among the crabapple orchards in this township was one on the old Solomon Hobart farm that was later owned by Peter Cornhill, who made a great study of grafting fruit trees, thus transforming the orchard of crab trees into bearing varieties of the choicest large apples.

Mr. Cornhill, who was an aged man when doing this work, did not live to enjoy much of the fruits of his labors. This orchard, although very old, is still bearing and the trees are healthy and sturdy. It is an example of the great value of grafting good fruit to trees bearing inferior fruit. The farm is now owned by Ernest Thomack.

The saying that "like begets like" does not hold true with the seeds of an apple, for if the seeds of an apple, such as a Wealthy, are planted the seedling tree will not be a Wealthy but some other variety. Usually seedling apple trees are crabs.

This being the case, grafting is the proper method to use to get more trees from some choice variety.

A tree that has been grafted will begin to bear the new variety of apples in about three years. Trees may be grafted either in the spring or fall.

FRUIT GROWERS MAY FORM ORGANIZATION

One More Spray Ring May Be Started This Month in Waupaca-co

Waupaca—Waupaca fruit and melon growers will organize to produce better quality products and to market them in an orderly and profitable manner, if the tentative plans formulated at a meeting of growers Friday night are carried out.

The first step decided upon at the meeting, which was under the supervision of A. N. Howatt, agricultural instructor at the Waupaca high school and addressed by Conrad Kuehner, extension specialist from the State University, was the production of clean sound fruit. It is the intention of the growers to attempt to organize one or more spray rings. The members of the spray rings will later form a marketing association.

Mr. Kuehner, in the course of his talk, emphasized the necessity of growing standard varieties, fertilization, pruning and spraying. It is felt that the local market would absorb the bulk of the fruit produced in this locality at a profitable figure. Local merchants have expressed a willingness to handle homegrown fruits and melons if assured of good marketable quality and condition.

A second meeting will be held in the agricultural rooms of the high-school on next Friday night, Nov. 4. It is expected that at this time definite action will be taken.

of table beets on the Sasman farm this fall. From an acre, the harvesters got only seven tons of beets while two years ago from the same sized patch, the yield was 27 tons. The Sasmans harvested 10 tons of cabbage this fall. Two silos were filled with a crop of corn that was very good but not quite ripe. On account of wet weather, a crop of Sudan grass that was cut and being cured for hay caused considerable trouble. It had to be handled between showers but there was no chance to dry it and haul it into the barn. One load that was moved away had to be removed afterward on account of heating. Giving up after repeated trials to make hay out of the grass, the Sasmans are now hauling the crop in and are intending to use it as bedding for their cattle.

According to E. L. Luther, state superintendent of farmers' institutes, two series of farm institutes will be held this fall in 15 cities of Wisconsin. One of the series is to deal with the cooperative marketing of cheese and, in this section, the institutes are being held at Bailey's Harbor, Door-co, Oct. 31 to Nov. 2; Maplewood, Nov. 3 to 5; Langenkamp's, near Kewaunee, Nov. 7 to 9, and De Pere, Nov. 10 to 12. H. W. Ullsperger, manager of the Door County Fruit Growers' Union, will have charge of the institutes at the points named and will discuss the cooperative marketing of farm products. H. H. Bakken, marketing specialist of the college of agriculture, and B. E. Ellington of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' Federation are to assist Mr. Ullsperger. Other farm institutes are to be held in other parts of the state, dealing with the cooperative marketing of poultry, eggs and butter, and tobacco.

CLEANUP IN FALL PREVENTS REGRETS IN EARLY SPRING

Protect Trees Against Mice and Rabbits Through Winter, Is Advice

Madison—(AP)—Spring is often the season of regret for the sins of omission committed in the fall by the gardener or home orchardist, J. G. Moore, horticulture expert of the state agricultural college here said in an address sent through the University radio phone WHA Monday night.

"For example, he said, 'every spring numerous letters come to my desk requesting information on how to repair the damage done to young trees during the winter by mice and rabbits. The old adage, 'An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure' certainly applies. While it is frequently possible to repair such damage the trees seldom fully recover. Apple trees on which the bark has not become rough are most likely to be attacked. The best preventive measure is putting tree protectors on the trees at this season. Veneer or wire mesh protectors are the types preferred. Have them long enough to come up to the foundation branches. Be sure to push them into the soil, or place soil around the base so that mice cannot work under them. If veneer protectors are used, they should be removed in the spring."

DESTROY SURPLUS FRUIT

He said another practice is to destroy any refuse fruit which hangs on the tree or has fallen to the ground.

"Shake the fruit from the tree and turn the hogs into the orchard," said Mr. Moore. "Be sure the hogs are well cinged or they may damage the tree by rooting. This cleanup process is particularly important when the fruit has been badly worn in-fested."

"In the vegetable garden the principal fall work after harvest is the clean-up. It's chief object is to lessen the danger of carrying over diseases and insects which might infest next year's crops. Many diseases are carried over on old foliage or stems and insects frequently find garden refuse excellent winter quarters. It is a good plan to burn the old leaves and stems of plants which have been diseased during the past summer. This is also true of those which were infested with boring insects. Refuse which was free from pests may be placed on the compost heap or plowed under."

FALL PLOWING NEEDED

He continued: "Fall plowing or spading of the garden is desirable where conditions make it practical. The soil benefits by exposure to freezing and thawing and insect pests are frequently destroyed by the exposure. Another advantage is that manure used for fertilization has a better chance to decay. Plowing under manure in the fall is particularly desirable when it is not well rotted.

"Even a greater advantage of fall plowing is the saving of time in the spring. All too often the farm garden is the last piece of spring plowing to be done. This delay reduces the value of the garden materially. On heavy soils which dry slowly in the spring, plowing is often delayed because the soil is too wet. Such a soil could usually be worked much earlier if all that was needed to fit it was harrowing or disking. With the town or garden, fall preparation of the soil is often not practical because of the difficulty of securing tillage equipment, or the necessity of resprouting in the spring, in the case of small gardens. However, when it is practical much benefit will be derived from following the practice."

MOST SHORT COURSE MEN GO BACK TO FARM

Madison—(AP)—A directory of former short course students of the state agriculture college shows that most of them have returned to farms after completing their courses. "Rural route" figures in most of the home addresses of the former students. Definite addresses are obtainable for 4,000 of the students. There are 3,500 whose addresses are unknown. An attempt is being made to find where all of these students are now located, and to what uses they have put their college work.

BUTTER TRADING UNEVEN FOR WEEK

Cheese Market Unsettled While Hogs Experience Unusually Sharp Decline

Madison—(AP)—Trading in butter was uneven during the past week, according to the state department of markets while cheese is reported as nervous and unsettled. The hog market experienced one of the sharpest declines in years, resulting from material increases in receipts and slack demand. The report says:

"During the first two days the situation was rather encouraging but liberal offerings of top scores combined with lack of interest on the part of buyers resulted in slow trade and in a nervous undertone. Fractional declines occurred on most scores. At the close of the week, however, light supplies of fancy butter resulted in a full cent advance on 82 score. Fair trade was reported on all grades. Centralized car market supplies were light and trading was fair. Butter prices are one half cent higher than last year at this time."

CHEESE SALE LIMITED

Cheese buyers are restricting their purchases to current needs. Trading is slow and buyers are operating on a hand to mouth basis. Prices are about three and three-quarters cents higher than last year at this time, says the department.

Continuing, the market reports: The price decline ranged from $1.50 to $2.50. The situation improved at the close of the week following expanded purchases on the part of all buying interests which stabilized prices to some extent. In spite of a considerable carryover at the close of the week there was no rush to dispose of hogs at sacrifice price. The expectation there will be a reduction in the market supplies with a consequent increase in prices. Hog prices are about $2.90 lower than at this time last year.

The continuing high prices on cattle culminated during the week in the highest levels since the war. The top reached $17.75 and the next highest price was $17.70. Yearlings sold upward to $17.50. Cattle prices are about $4.30 higher than last year.

Fat lamb prices continued to advance as a result probably of decreased supplies, the increase being from twenty-five to fifty cents. Feeding lambs advanced thirty-five to fifty cents during the first part of the week. Later in the week, however, high prices caused cancellations of orders for lambs. Trading became slow but demand was still active enough to keep the small supply moving and to prevent appreciable lossing. Sheep prices are about sixty cents lower than last year.

HIGHWAY CREWS PUTTING GRAVEL ON STATE ROADS

County highway construction crews this week are graveling a short stretch of road on State highway 55 just north of the village of Seymour in the town of Seymour. This work will be completed in about three days after which the crew will gravel about two miles of road on Highway 156 in the town of Maine. That work will be completed in about two weeks.

A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, said as soon as the two graveling jobs are finished the construction crew will be "laid off" for the winter. There are about 20 men in this crew.

Three or four men will be employed by the highway department all winter. They will install snow fences the latter part of the month. Fences are being repaired and put in readiness at the county shops this week.

POLICE PRAISE CHILDREN FOR HALLOWEEN CAUTION

Only a few complaints that "children were too noisy" were received at the police department Monday night, according to George T. Pim, chief of police, who praised the youngsters of the city for the caution in celebrating Halloween. Special police officers were on duty in the city but there was so little trouble caused by merry makers that they were not needed.

"Very few windows were soaped and we have not learned of a single instance of property damage," Chief Pim declared. "The children of the city were exceptionally cautious and careful in their celebration."

Many homes in the city kept electric lights burning on the porches to keep Halloween gangs from hauling off furniture or other articles.

M'ANDREWS DRILLING TEAM FOR APPLETON

Electric City Team Hopeful of Holding Orange Squad to Low Score on Nov. 12

Kaukauna—Although the Galloping Ghosts have no football game scheduled for Saturday, Coach McAndrews is not letting down on work for the team. He rushed the men out to a stiff practice Monday evening following the squad's 26 to 0 victory over Two Rivers. It is being impressed upon the squad that Appleton must be met next and the Orange and Black will not have an easy time.

The College City team has won three games and lost to East Green Bay and Marinette squads. These two teams are among the best in the state.

Last year the Orange and Blue trampled over Kaukauna for a score of more than thirty points getting revenge for the Kaws defeat of the Shieldsmen of the year previous by a 12 to 0 score.

The Appleton-Kaukauna game will be played at Whiting field at Appleton on Nov. 12 and will attract more than usual interest because it will give fans an opportunity of comparing the best team in the Northwest with one of the strongest in the Fox River Valley conference.

The Kaws finished the conference season with four victories and one tie game. The Galloping Ghosts scored 98 points on their opponents in these five games while Menasha was the only team to score a touchdown against them. Kaukauna's conference record follows: Kaukauna 0, Oconto 0; Kaukauna 14, Menasha 6; Kaukauna 27, Shawano 0; Kaukauna 31, Menasha 0; Kaukauna 26, Two Rivers 0.

HOBOS FLOCKING TO JAIL TO GET AWAY FROM CRISP NIGHTS

Kaukauna—With the advent of cool, crisp nights, lodgers at the city jail are becoming more numerous. During the summer months it is quite unusual for more than one "knight of the rail" to seek lodging for the evening. Now every night eight and ten and even more ask for lodging. Some of them are men in dire straits who are earnestly seeking employment while others are just common "hobs" who make this part of the valley regularly and seemingly adhere to a regular schedule.

Before locking them in the cells the tramps are subjected to careful search by a police officer.

GALA PROGRAM AT MOOSE FESTIVAL

Large Number of Visitors Attend Program Accompanying Class Initiation

Kaukauna—Sunday was a big day in local Moose history. Nearly fifty candidates were given the second degree by Mooseheart Legion degree team. The ceremonies took place in the south side Forester hall following a parade of the business streets by the Kaukauna Moose band, the candidates led by a goat. About three hundred visiting Moose attended the degree work.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon a program was presented for the entertainment of members in Moose hall and this was followed by a dinner served by the Kaukauna Women of Mooseheart legion. In the evening the men held a stag smoker.

The program was opened with songs by the Kaukauna high school glee clubs under the direction of Miss Eleanor Wooster, city supervisor of music. The boys sang "Mighty Lak a Rose," while the girls entertained with "The Cradle Song" and together they sang "The Song of India."

A feature of the evening was the Hawaiian and Oriental dances by "Princess Jaunita" of Minneapolis. Between dances Frank Sanborn did acrobatic stunts with the hoop, chairs, rope and a barrel.

LITTLE CHUTE LOSES TO MERRILL, 9 TO 0

Game Is Rough on Players—Several Are Injured and Taken Out of Contest

Little Chute—The Little Chute "Flying Dutchmen" football team was defeated by the Merrill team at Merrill Sunday by a score of 9 to 0. A freak recovery of a pass and a perfect dropkick accounted for the points. In the first quarter Vandy kicked off the ball going over the goal line but was recalled. On the next kickoff the ball was brought back to the 50 yard line. A series of end runs brought the ball on the Little Chute 20 yard line. Then a pass scored the touchdown for the Merrill team. A pass after being knocked in the air by a Little Chute player fell on the shoulder of a Merrill end who fumbled it awhile then recovered it and scored. He missed the kick for the goal. Little Chute then received the ball and after a few minutes of playing Vander Loop, right halfback, injured his leg in a 20-yard run and was replaced by "Kansas Hoehden."

In the second quarter Kilgas, quarterback, punted out of bounds to the Merrill 30-yard line. The Merrill team tried plunges but could not gain. Verbeten, Little Chute right halfback, also punted, getting the ball and returning it for an 8 yard run. It was at this time that he injured his shoulder and was replaced by Captain Vander Loop. After a few minutes of play H. Harjes was injured but recovered to play a good game with Kilgas who made good punts but always played out of bounds.

In the third quarter the ball was on the Little Chute 30-yard line and a blocked punt by J. Wildenberg helped Little Chute as H. Verbeten recovered the ball. Van Handle was injured and was replaced by H. Verbeten. Little Chute line was gaining more confidence in the fourth quarter as Miron Vander Wist and V. Harjes succeeded in blocking the end runs. After holding three downs on their own 20 yard line Angus Merrill halfback, made a dropkick which made a score of 9 to 0. Little Chute received the ball and was on the Merrill 30 yard line when the whistle blew. The game was hard fought. Many wild passes, lost yards for the Little Chute team because of the absence of "Red" Peters and Gregory Harjes. Janbes, Merrill fullback, suffered a broken jaw and will not be able to play any more games this season. The local lineup was: Jansen, center; Miron, right guard; Vander Wist, right tackle; Driessen and Weyenberg, right ends; P. Vander Loop, left guard; C. Wildenberg, left tackle; Van Handle, left end; Kilgas, quarterback; H. Harjes, left halfback; G. Vander Loop and Verbeten right halfback; Verbeten, fullback; Peters, Hoehden, Verbeten, subs. Merrill lineup: Koajaszy, center; Lapp, right guard; Steele, right tackle; Hartz, right end; Corbin, left guard; Hall, left tackle; Ristau left end; Taustar quarterback; Leud, left halfback; Captain Bodwitz, right halfback; Jandes, fullback; Martin and Angus, substitutes.

The Junior "Flying Dutchmen" football team lost to the Neenah eleven here Sunday by a score of 6 to 0. It was a hard fought game and the local team outplayed the Neenah team but were outweighed. This was the first game for the local team this season and a return game will be played at Neenah next Sunday. The Little Chute lineup: C. Dietzen and S. Verbeten, center; S. Williams, Leo Verbeten and C. Seggeling, guards; L. Van Dinter, E. and Leo Scampore and C. Helf, tackles; S. Timmers and R. Vanden Heuvel, ends; C. Verbeten, quarterback; J. Hammen, right halfback; A. Wildenberg, left halfback; R. De Bruin, fullback.

PHYSICIAN DENIES ANY SET AGE FOR SENILITY

Milwaukee—(P)—There is no fixed age for senility, Dr. A. W. Rogers, president of the Wisconsin State Medical Society, Tuesday told those attending the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association. He said that "it is quite within the bounds of scientific possibility" to keep the vigor of 20 when 40 has been attained.

Speaking of "Periodical Physical Examinations," Dr. Rogers said in part: "Everyone will recognize that an automobile properly handled will last much longer than one neglected. It is just as true of humans. Physical examinations are the 'proper handlings' for human beings. The possession of chronically ill people through the hospitals and doctors' offices bear witness to the average person's neglect."

"We are prone to think we live in an era of tremendous advance in the treatment of disease, but the cold facts do not bear out such belief. My experience for 30 years makes me say that in the last 25 years I can think of no remedy or treatment for any common disease which offers to the victims any great chance of cure. The advances we have made in life saving—tremendous as they have been—are in the domain of surgery and prevention and early recognition."

Dr. Rogers said that besides "the personal gain which may be made through periodical physical examination, there is a great economic gain which may be made by the country as a whole. More and more of the great business organizations are going into periodic health examination on the large scale, not entirely for humanitarian motives, but to keep fit and efficient their best men."

Railroad Taxes

The Railroads in the United States pay over One Million Dollars a day as taxes.

The Railroads now pay each year in taxes more than twice as much as it cost to operate the Government fifty years ago.

Taxes paid by the North Western Railway in 1927 will approximate Ten Million Dollars.

This is double the taxes paid in 1916 and eight times the taxes paid in 1900.

The "North Western" System comprising 10,064 miles, paid more taxes in 1926 than were paid by all of the railroads in the Dominion of Canada consisting of 39,148 miles.

In many localities the North Western Railway taxes comprise more than one-half of the funds used to support the schools.

For the past five years the North Western's taxes have exceeded its cash dividends by one and one-half million dollars per year.

CORBETT TO ASSIST IN GATHERING VOTE

Referendum Will Determine Attitude of Businessmen Toward Tax Cut

R. G. Corbett, secretary of Appleton chamber of commerce, has been requested by E. R. Smith, chairman of the state committee on referenda of the United States chamber of commerce, to assist in gathering the vote on referendum No. 50 on federal taxation. Mr. Smith, who is secretary of the Oshkosh chamber, is attempting to get a 100 per cent vote in Wisconsin, on the referendum, which he says is important to all business men and citizens. Mr. Corbett has been assigned to get the votes from the Appleton, Algoma, Marshfield, Wisconsin Rapids, and Door-co chambers. The referendum asks for votes on the following:

Recommendation of immediate reduction and repeal in federal taxes which, if made effective, are estimated to amount to $400,000,000 in the first full year after the changes are made; recommendation that the corporate income of 1927 should not exceed 10 per cent; recommendation that Congress should provide full opportunity for the joint congressional tax committee to perfect proposals for revision of federal tax laws and their administration; individuals, firms and corporations in the various cities vote on the referendum which is for use of the national chamber.

STAGE And SCREEN

JANNINGS LIVES ROLE IN "THE WAY OF ALL FLESH"

Hollywood is filled with players who play their character the second the director orders. "Cut." They assume their role when they hear, "Camera." They give the best of their ability, seldom worry of things other than their private affairs and will never be truly great, according to Emil Jannings, who falls to understand their temperament.

For Jannings, declared by many to be the greatest actor in the world, is his character night and day from the time a picture starts until it is finished.

It is for this reason that Mrs. Jannings recently left home, temporarily. It is for this reason that Carl Goenig, Jannings' valet, became so nervous that he leaped at the slightest sound. It is for this reason that the Jannings' chauffeur, therefore, always proud of his shiny motors, neglected them until a month's accumulation of dust and mud covered their bodies.

For Jannings, not so long ago, ceased to be the Emil Jannings that they know and love. He became an old man, ancient past the point of caring what the world thinks. He slunk down the street with halting, slovenly step; to all outward appearance a battered derelict, drifting toward the drab sunset horizon of life.

It mattered not if he was at the Paramount studio, enacting scenes for "The Way of All Flesh" which reaches Fischer's Appleton Theatre today and Wednesday or at home. He never spoke or lifted his head. Day and night he remained the August Schiller of his story.

And so Mrs. Jannings stands, the remarkable wife of a remarkable husband, a woman who can truly understand the creative soul of an artist. The world has known few of them. Perhaps those close to Bernhardt suffered with her when she played Camille; the great Duse undoubtedly had those who loved and sympathized with her when she was torn by the torturing emotions of her all-demanding roles. They say that David Warfield carried the sweet, sacrificing nature of "The Music Master" into his home when he was making fame in that dramatic vehicle; became, in fact, the Music Master to all who knew him.

So Mrs. Jannings, rather than disrupt the creative flow by her presence, elects to efface herself until Emil Jannings, the artist, it is a sacrifice for both, perhaps more complete for her than for him. But she would have us understand it is a sacrifice she gladly makes.

DRIVER AWARDED $216 FOR DAMAGES TO CAR

A judgment of $216 for damages to his automobile was awarded to Harry E. Allen, New London, in a suit brought against Charles Learman before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning. Allen claimed that Learman's negligent driving was responsible for the accident on county trunk highway S near New London Oct. 1. Allen claimed his machine was damaged to the extent of $216 and sought to recover that amount. Learman denied all the allegations and tried to prove that contributory negligence on the part of Allen was responsible for the accident.

The BABY

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria: its gentle influence seems just what is needed. If it does all that castor oil might accomplish without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. It's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's a sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea; or need to aid sound, natural sleep. Just one warning: it is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Bennett Doty, Again In Action, Says He Is Happy

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS

Paris—"I am in action again and I am happy." This is the message sent to friends in Paris by Bennett J. Doty, the Mississippi who after a brilliant record with American forces during the World War, joined the Foreign Legion, and now is back with his regiment in Algeria after being pardoned.

In letters to Paris acquaintances Doty tells his own story of the part he played in an international drama. "I cannot stand being idle," he said. "After the World War I went home, but I found life too dull and so I joined the French Foreign Legion. Ultimately I got to Syria. There was at first plenty of action there and I was happy with the work and with my pals, men from all corners of the world, who loved adventure and loved to fight. But in time we brought about comparative peace, and in the heat of the desert, it was unendurable."

"A WEAK MOMENT" In a weak moment I quit camp with two Germans and an Englishman. We were captured and each was sentenced to eight years in prison. "The 13 months I spent in prison, with the stigma of being a deserter on my name, was the hardest period I have ever spent. It did not matter that I bore a false name and I never had been a quitter before. I never shall be a quitter again."

It was during the American Legion convention in Paris that the Minister of War thought kindly of Doty and gave him a pardon. In prison, Doty had tried to keep a smiling face and take his medicine.

"Today my heart is full of joy for I have been given another chance and I am going to make good," he wrote to his friends. "I am back with my buddies and there is work for us to do in the hills this winter. There will be fighting, and that's what I love."

Doty, who enlisted originally under the name of Gilbert Clare, is attached to the First Regiment of the Foreign Legion, now stationed at Sidi bel Abbes, Algeria. Except for his one release, he has had a fine record and his comrades have accepted him again without asking questions, which is the custom in the Legion.

When he first was in Syria he was given the Croix de Guerre for gallantry, with a citation that read: "Legionnaire of remarkable calmness and sang froid and expert marksman. During the battle of Resaz, Oct. 7, 1925, he aroused great admiration from all when, walking upright and under a rain of bullets, he proceeded to attack."

It is futile to compare Marian Chase Schaeffer with any other artist, for she has created a field that is all her own. Personality, experience, great human understanding and an inherent love for her work, have combined to bring her to distinctive position in the platform world.
There is probably not a reader or actor in this country or in any other country who can compare with Marian Chase Schaeffer in the impersonation of children. Her work as a mimic of little folks is perfect.
Her highly diversified programs are the result of careful preparation of growth, embracing a wide range of literary interpretation.

Mayor A. C. Rule has been requested by the Great Lakes Harbors association to appoint five delegates to a meeting of the association to be held at Toronto, Ont., on Nov. 16 and 17. "Matters of the utmost importance to the navigation interests of the Great Lakes will be considered," the letter to Mayor Rule said.

The story of the famous case now pending before the United States supreme court against the Chicago Drainage district will be reviewed by leading lawyers in the case. # HAGEN'S 141 LEADS FIELD IN DALLAS OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

Haig Plays Consistent Game To Lead Nearest Rival By Three Strokes

Armour, Farrell, Who played Here This Summer, Clash in First Round

Dallas, Tex.—(AP)—Luck of the draw in the National Professional Golf association's championship tournament here Tuesday left several favorites, who had little difficulty in qualifying, paired for the first round of match play.

Playing the consistent game that has won him four national professional titles, Walter Hagen was medalist in Monday's elimination round with 141, three strokes ahead of the field.

Sarazen and Joe Turnesa of Youngstown, O., trailed Al Esposito of New York were next with 148. Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, Frances Gallet of Wauwatosa, Wis., and Jack Farrell of the North Shore club, Glenhead, N. Y., turned 147's.

FARRELL VS ARMOUR

In the upper bracket of match play Tuesday Hagen was paired with Jack Farrell while Johnny Armour of Tommy Armour of Washington, who qualified with 152, Cooper and Esposito also were in the upper frame. Sarazen drew Leonard Loos of Ashland, N. Y.

Kaukauna 26, Two Rivers 0.

New London 84, Clintonville 0.

Shawano 24, Neenah 0.

Kewaunee 15, Algoma 6.

West De Pere 7, Sturgeon Bay 0.

When Kaukauna high school's football team walloped Two Rivers high at Two Rivers Saturday by a score of 26-0, it clinched the 1927 gridiron championship of the newly-organized Northeastern Wisconsin Interscholastic conference, in fact the first grid title of the new loop. For the Two Rivers game was the last for the Kaukauna and they are unbeaten this year, though one of their record. All of the other conference teams have lost games, though they still have games to play. They still have to take the title from the idle Kaukauna.

The title crowns the first year of coaching for Harry "Pat" McAndrews, former University of Wisconsin and Oshkosh Normal athlete, a decided success as Pat took over a team that had only fair material and introduced a new system to which Kaukauna had used for several years under Tiger Bill Smith, now at West Division Milwaukee. Usually the first year of a new system after years of another with only fair material is disastrous for a mentor.

KAWS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

The Kaws got off to a bad start, playing far below standard in the conference opening game before the new system had a fair chance and tied Oconto in a field of mud, causing loop fans to be pessimistic about the McAndrews' teams title chances. This was added to by a bad drubbing from Oshkosh the week before. Since then the Kaws have won four loop games to overshadow their one loss and now have two weeks of rest before the all-important game with Appleton high here on Nov. 12. Oconto, since tying Kaukauna, has been the doormat of the loop, winning one game and losing four. It has held down teams that Kaukauna trounced by a wide margin.

Oconto Falls clung to second place with five wins and a loss as the result of the weekend games, according to the report of J. E. Klotz, Menasha, secretary of the conference. Menasha and W. DePere also won to hold their third place tie and New London turned in the biggest score of the weekend to keep its mark of only one loss but also only two wins.

The weekend scores were Oconto Falls 25, Oconto 0; Menasha 15, DePere 7; New London 84, Clintonville 0; Shawano 24, Neenah 0; Kewaunee 15, Algoma 6; W. DePere 7, Sturgeon Bay 0. At least four conference games must be played to give the teams title consideration at the end of the year. Fifteen schools are members of the loop. Only one conference team, Gillett, with a win and a loss, is under the four mark.

Cooper A Favorite In Present Dallas Event

Dallas, Tex.—Mark it down, friends, that "Lighthorse" Harry Cooper, colorful young pro of the El Sencro Country club of Hollywood, Calif., runner-up in the national open this year, will be a "heap big favorite" to championship here Oct. 31 to Nov. 3.

There's a reason. Young Harry will be coming home. He will make his third try at the title over the course he was raised on from a boy of 15 years. He learned his shots on the Cedar Crest Country club course, the scene of the professional tournament. He knows every blade of grass, every grain of sand on this toughest of Texas links.

There's another good reason. The "Lighthorse" plays his best before the folks that raised him—the folks that helped him when he was a lanky, growing youth. Dallas still claims him, although he has migrated on to better things.

Harry is called "cocky" but the home folks understand. They believe in him as he believes in himself. And Cooper will play this fall to uphold the faith that Dallas has in him.

Ask Walter Hagen, the so-many-times winner of the nation's pro crown—and the present titleholder—if you don't think Cooper is almost invincible here. The "Great Hag" took the worst beating of his long career in February this year when he met Harry in a 12-hole match on the same course. 'Twas a sad, sad battle for Hagen. His greatest shots did no harm. He went down 19 and 8.

Followed by a big crowd of home fans, despite the rain, Cooper began dead in earnest. He took the lead at the first hole. Hagen saw desperate, sensational golf overcome his steady per game, hole by hole. "Harry never let up, although at one time he had an eight up lead, and could have tied a hole by taking two safe putts. He tried for the 30-foot and made it.

Cooper's colorful money player, was strutting his stuff before the home town folk. The Hag found back and on two rounds tossed in below par golf. But even that didn't work. "Harry was running from three to five of Ol' Man Par himself.

MINNESOTA-IRISH GAME BIG FEATURE

Two Outstanding Unbeaten Elevens Clash at South Bend

Chicago—(AP)—Two of the outstanding unbeaten football teams in the country with opposite methods of gaining yardage, feature the middle-west's football program Saturday when Minnesota and Notre Dame meet at South Bend, Ind.

This year more than ever, Rockne has a light fast team with an open shift passing and running attack, centered around Christy Flanagan, a man-of-war in himself. Minnesota has passers and runners too, but the main threat of Coach Spears' gophers is Captain Herb Joesting, who has yet to find the line he can't break through. The unbeaten Illini were started on their Iowa campaign by a long lecture from Coach Zuppke on the harm that overconfidence may do after two great victories.

Coach Hanley took the lecture platform too, to point out the mistakes he saw in Northwestern's play against Missouri. Northwestern is one of the four conference teams reported in the victory column. The others are Illinois, Michigan and Chicago, the latter two each with one defeat, the same as Northwestern.

Michigan and Chicago will be out to push each other down the scale in their battle at Stags field Saturday. "Old Man" Stags has begun to build a defense for the Oosterbaan-Gilbert passes. The Maroons came out of the Ohio battle without injury, except to their record of victories. The Wolverines will have Gilbert back in the lineup Saturday from present indications. Coach Wieman kept him out of the Illinois game for fear of complications from an infected arm which was operated on only a few minutes before game time.

Ohio State will take Harvard's vacant football engagement against Princeton Saturday.

Star at Penn State

Harry Wilson, captain of the Army eleven this year, was a star back at Penn State before he entered West Point.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Again we had a fair week in the field of prognosticators and predictors and our usual two games came right on the dot. As far as wins were concerned we picked 11 winners and in 15 attempts and of the four we had wrong two were decided upsets. Anyway we had Ohio State and Chicago exactly right, the Buckeyes winning 13-7, and we were a point off on Fondy with a 14-0 win over Sheboygan while the score was 13-0.

In the Valley conference we picked Appleton to beat Manitowish, 12-0, but the score was 12-6 when the Orange played plenty of ragged ball. We had East to beat Marinette, 20-0 and the final score was 24-0, four points different. West beat Oshkosh, 48-0, as against our pick of 21-0, but the Sawdust city crew was way off and the score should have been much closer to our guess. Even the weakest of the Baymen found the Oshkosh team, as it played Friday, easy.

We had a few other close ones, too. Here's the rest, first our guess and then the actual score, with the four "bum" guesses first. Coe 13, Cornell 7; Cornell 3, Coe 0. Michigan 13, Illinois 0; Illinois 14, Michigan 0, (upset). Indiana 13, Harvard 0; Harvard 26, Indiana 6. Northwestern 21, Missouri 0; Missouri 34, Northwestern 19, (upset). # Milwaukee Sport Scribe Would Like To Maintain Little Five Conference

George Downer Decries
Breaking Up of Traditional
State Rivalries

"Save the Little Five conference," is the plea of George Downer, sporting editor of a Milwaukee newspaper in his column, written Tuesday. The Cream City sport scribe deplores the breakup of the old state collegiate group, saying that Lawrence and Ripon care more for the prestige they might get in whipping Carleton, Coe, Cornell or some such well-known school than for their old group. Meanwhile the Badger colleges lose financially on the Midwest games while the state games, beside stirring much more enthusiasm and interest among alumni and followers and in the entire state, were a source of more revenue to the schools, the writer said. He also brings out the complaint that the larger conference is a disadvantage to the Badger schools because of the long trips and jumps. Here's his comment:

"Alumni and friends of the several state colleges which have composed the so-called Little Five conference have, many of them, expressed regret that the organization, more recently known as the Wisconsin-Illinois conference, seems on the verge of dissolution after an honorable and interesting existence for twenty odd years. When known as the Wisconsin Little Five, its membership included Ripon, Lawrence, Beloit, Carroll, and Northwestern of Watertown. A few years ago Beloit withdrew and Lake Forest was admitted, the name being changed to fit the new situation created by the admission of an Illinois institution. Now it appears from press dispatches from Ripon and Appleton that Ripon and Lawrence colleges are to withdraw from their state conference in favor of the Midwest Intercollegiate conference, in which both already hold memberships.

One does not know what reasons may have inspired this decision. It certainly is not the writer's purpose to attempt to tell Ripon and Lawrence their business. But, writing strictly as an outsider, with no special interest in any college in the state, one may be permitted to express regret that the truly famous and historic Little Five is to pass out of existence. Its games have been classics in the state for more than two decades. At different times, different members have held the upper hand, but in the long run, the honors were well divided. Such games as the Ripon-Lawrence, Carroll and Beloit-Lawrence battles create a statewide interest which no games with such distant schools as Coe, Carleton, Hamline or Carleton can possibly awaken among alumni or townspeople who are loyal supporters.

As we understand it, the Wisconsin colleges which belong to the Midwest conference are discovering this and are finding the heavy financial burdens entailed by playing schools of a circuit so widely scattered, geographically, as is the Midwest, almost more than they can bear. Lacking any official information, one can only accept common report, which is that none of the state colleges now in the Midwest are making any money worth mentioning on their games with schools from outside the state. Their state games, on the other hand, are profitable. One assumes that the reason they joined the Midwest was to secure what they believed would be greater prestige from playing these more distant—and in most cases, larger—schools. If they could win consistently from such as Coe, Cornell and Carleton, this might be true, but speaking from recollection only, without the complete records, one would say that they have not been winning as often as they have lost. They have added little to their athletic standing through these new contracts.

Naturally, belonging to two conferences, as Ripon and Lawrence have, since they joined the Midwest, and as Beloit did, prior to its withdrawal from the state conference, entails difficulties in schedule making. The Wisconsin-Illinois conference has a rule requiring each member school to play all other members maintaining teams in a given sport. This rule has been objected to, we are told, by Lawrence and Ripon, which did not wish always to have to play Northwestern, a team they could usually defeat in football—and which maintains teams in no other sport except baseball, which these two schools do not now play. Again disavowing any wish to "butt in" on the business or college policies of Lawrence and Ripon, one may at least be privileged to suggest that there is a rule which might be changed and this objection overcome without disrupting this historic old conference.

Sport lovers throughout Wisconsin, not affiliated with any of the interested schools will view with regret the passing of the Little Five—to give it its old and better known though now no longer official title. It is always well to say that the member schools can still continue to play each other. But will they? In every such organization there are bound to arise, from time to time, petty matters of disagreement which are common to college sport everywhere. When the schools concerned belong to a conference, they are forced to iron these troubles out. In the end, they usually leave every one feeling better after they have been settled. But where there is no organization to assume their settlement, these intrinsically unimportant differences remain in importance and generally result in splits and severance of athletic relations. On the surface, we know of no such causes of disagreement between Lawrence and Ripon, on the one hand, and Carroll, Northwestern and Lake Forest, on the other. If they exist, would it not be better for the affected schools to get together and thresh them out, rather than end the traditional rivalries and games which mean so much more to their respective alumni and supporters than any game with distant, nonstate schools. One may at least hope, without giving offense, that the Little Five, one of the oldest college conferences in the west, can still be saved.

FORD'S WITHDRAWAL INJURES BUSINESS ALL OVER COUNTRY

Estimates Show Motor King
Has Lost $240,000,000 in Five Months

Detroit—Henry Ford, who built from lowpriced automobiles the greatest personal fortune in the world's history, has set another record this year—a record for losing money.

Since the middle of May, when Ford, deciding the time-honored "Model T" would have to give way to an entirely new car, shut down his plants and abruptly stopped production, he has taken a paper loss that reaches the stupendous total of more than $240,000,000.

No individual but Ford could have it. No one without Ford's enormous resources could have entered that amount on his books as a loss and continued to plan for the future on an even larger scale than before.

Since Ford's shutdown occurred, lost orders alone have given a book loss of $32,000,000 a month.

SCRAPPED HIS MACHINES
Added to this is the expense of com-

BOBBY HILLER WINS MATCH FROM M'AULEY

Nobby Hiller, Shiocton grappler, won a match from Abe McAuley of Oshkosh last Thursday night at Shepherville. Hiller took the first fall in 34 minutes with a half nelson. Neither man secured a fall in the next 31 minutes and Hiller was awarded the match because of a one hour and five minute time agreement. Neither had any advantage over the other in the final 31 minutes.

In the semi-final Gussert of Shiocton and Berman of New London wrestled 30 minutes to a draw. In the preliminary Shorty DeLong beat Young King Cole. DeLong took the first fall in 11 minutes with a body scissors and Cole took the second in four minutes with a toe hold. DeLong took the final fall and the match in five minutes with a hammerlock and half nelson. The match was the best of the evening.

A large crowd witnessed the matches. James McLaughlin, Stevensville, promoter of the matches, is arranging another card for the near future.

pletely making over his plants. Almost all of his machinery had to be scrapped. Factories had to be rearranged every day. In addition, there was a heavy overhead connected with maintaining his idle mines, his railroad, his steel plants, his shipping line, his forests. Conservative estimates place his expense in these connections at $50,000,000.

His book loss—on lost orders during the shutdown period will approximate $192,000,000. Of that sum, probably $45,000,000 would have been clear profit.

These figures are almost too numerous to be grasped easily. Yet Ford, in spite of them, has not had to borrow a cent. For he began the year with a cold cash bank balance of more than $350,000,000. Thus, in spite of his heavy losses, he still has a cash reserve of huge proportions.

Ford's losses have had a direct effect on the rest of the country, particularly on the middle west.

To begin with, his shutdown stopped the payrolls in his factories. It is estimated that this stopped more than $1,000,000 a week from Detroit's purchasing power.

And that is only a starter.

The steel mills of the Cleveland-Mahoning Valley district have suffered, Ford was an important customer of theirs. Stoppage of his orders not only shut off a large volume of business; it also reduced the price levels for the remaining customers. It has been a slow summer for the steel men, and Ford is largely responsible.

The railroads also felt Ford's withdrawal keenly. The rubber industry was affected, though not so sharply; plate glass manufacturers were hard hit, and the slumping coal industry was pushed down a little bit deeper.

The automobile industry as a whole was hurt, too. Paradoxical as it sounds, Ford's withdrawal was not an unmixed blessing for his rivals.

During the first eight months of this year the industry as a whole sold 500,000 fewer cars than in the first eight months of 1926. It is worth noting that whereas Ford's production was 70,000 cars below his 1926 figure, his rivals were able to increase their sales by 200,000.

WAITING FOR FORD
For there is magic in Ford's name. Thousands upon thousands of prospective automobile buyers are waiting to see the new Ford before they buy. After it appears many of them, doubtless will buy other cars; but just now they are holding off, waiting. Thus the whole industry feels the effect of the Ford shutdown.

Such is Ford's power. Now for another indication of it.

Nearly every business leader, in Detroit, and elsewhere, looks for a marked pickup in industry about the first of the year. Why? Chiefly because Ford will be in full production again by that time. Detroit will be prosperous again; the steel industry will revive; railroads will find their shipments mounting; the whole industrial machine will run faster and more smoothly.

Ford's re-entry into the field, incidentally, is going to mark a new era in the automobile industry.

Until a few years ago it was true that Ford had no competitors. He concentrated on utility and cheapness; he built a car unsurpassed for durability and low price ranges, but utterly without those refinements of line and equipments with which other manufacturers sought to beguile their customers.

MUCH LIKE LINCOLN

All that will be changed henceforth. No definite announcements have been made by Ford about his new car, but enough has been learned through reliable sources so that it can be said that Ford is out to meet other manufacturers on their own ground.

The new car will be utterly unlike the flapper of the old days. It has been copied after the Lincoln—naturally, on a much smaller scale. The motor is new, the transmission and gear shift are like the Lincoln's. Four-wheel internal expanding brakes are to be standard equipment, and it is now reliably reported that Ford has for the old "wagon springs" that have adorned all Ford's thus far and will equip his new car with springs such as other autos have.

Ford, oddly enough, is revealed in this change as a man of great sentiment.

For several years everyone else in the automobile world knew that the old flapper could not survive the competition that Ford's rivals were giving him.

ing him. Ford had educated the country to the idea that everyone could own an auto; and, strange to say, the purchasers that he had thus educated had reached the point where they demanded something besides utility and cheapness.

HATED TO CHANGE

Ford was the last to admit this. He clung desperately to the old Model T, even when his sales were dropping alarmingly. Even last winter, when it became obvious that something would have to be done, he wanted to keep the old model and make improvements; and it was only when he found that it would cost him more to make the necessary changes than to bring out a completely new model did he change his attitude.

The result is a radically new Ford. It is said that only the nuts and bolts are in any way similar to any of the parts in the old car. Ford, having made up his mind to the change, has gone the whole way.

He is expected to be in full production by the first of the year. And industrial leaders, realizing the tremendous extent of his influence on the nation's prosperity, predict that his re-entry will bring a return of prosperity in every line.

For Ford is Ford—and when he moves the whole nation feels it.

JACK LOCKWILL'S FOREST RANGERS

Evening was near when the young forest rangers came to Enchanted Stream, at the foot of the mountain. Not far from a wide waterfall that fell in a shimmering sheet over the edge of a twenty-foot precipice they found an ideal camp-site. The packs were opened and a fire was started. Jack, whose turn it was to cook, soon had bacon sizzling in the frying-pan.

The boys were hungry as bears. Warmed-up canned beans, crisp bacon, hardtack and coffee, with cake chocolate for dessert, furnished a satisfying evening meal.

Their ravenous appetites appeased, the boys loafed a while, talking and listening to the sound of the waterfall. Suddenly a cry—a human scream—came from the woods.

That cry, full of terror, brought them to their feet. "Jumping jingoes!" gulped Darling, his eyes startled. "That's the way my sister yells when she sees a mouse!" "It sounded like a girl!" said McNally. "But there can't be one around here." Jack didn't waste his breath. In a moment he was running in the direction from which the cry had seemed to come.

William C. Gielow of the Maple Grove Cooperative cheese factory, was awarded first prize in a statewide contest in class one, open to all who were entering for the first time. Third place in this same class went to E. P. Minicheske of the Maribel cheese factory, who purchased the property from Herman Rindt of this city about three years ago. They visited Quentin Roosevelt's grave, experiencing a very tiresome walk, as the roads were very poor. Everywhere they said the cemeteries were beautifully kept. Living in Paris they found very expensive during the convention days. They paid 32 cents for one small ear of corn, and 32 cents was the price of a cup of coffee. They found that tipping was by no means optional—it was demanded. Among other countries and principalities visited were Italy, Belgium, Monaco, Switzerland, Germany, Luxembourg and England. In Italy they visited the Vatican and were received by the pope. Switzerland they found charming, maintaining that in point of picturesque loveliness it surpassed the beautiful Mediterranean regions.

60 PER CENT OF FIRES ARE IN PRIVATE HOMES

Sixty per cent of all fires are in homes, according to a bulletin issued by the International Association of Fire Fighters, received by Chief George P. McGillan.

The bulletin summarizes fire losses by stating that 10,000 lives are lost and 20,000 people are injured in fires each year. "Five schools, one hospital, five churches and 15 hotels are destroyed by fire every day," the letter said.

Other statistics showed that if the fire loss was divided between all the people in the United States, the loss would be $25.50 per family; $425.24 per fire; $1,066 per minute; and $1,537,750 per day.

Each fireman protects 326 persons and property valued at $1,097,729, the bulletin stated.

17 BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED BY INSPECTOR

FIRE PROTECTION IS COSTLY PROPOSITION

Over $261,000 Spent Annually in City to Keep Insurance Rates Low

More than $261,000 is spent for protection against loss by fire by the city of Appleton and residents thereof each year.

Last year approximately $175,000 was spent for fire insurance, $34,000 for hydrant rental and $52,000 for upkeep and expenses of the fire department.

In addition to these sums, a large amount was spent by private business firms in providing sprinkler systems, fire extinguishers and other individual efforts to reduce the fire hazard.

The city receives a 2 per cent tax on all fire insurance written in the city. This tax, which amounted to about $3,500 in 1926, goes into the firemen's pension fund. The tax paid indicates that the people and business firms in Appleton paid $175,000 for fire insurance policies.

The total spent by the city last year for operation and maintenance is made up of a number of items. For example, the city paid out $42,383 for salaries of firemen; the electrician's salary was $1,500; power for operation of the alarm system cost $155; fuel to heat the fire and police department building cost $90; and the light bill was $225. The balance of the $52,000 annual expenditure was made up of miscellaneous expenses.
